

UNDERSTANDING YOUR CORE VALUES | EXERCISE 2

Values-based Decision Making

Values act as a moral compass to help us decide what's right and wrong, good or bad.

Everyone's values are different and where they draw a line in the sand may also differ from person to person.

What is wrong for one person may be acceptable for another.

It can be uncomfortable and a source of anxiety when personal and business values are not aligned.

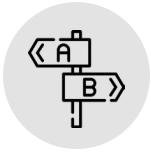

Think of a situation in which your personal values were challenged at work:

What happened?

How did you feel?

What did you do?

How did your values impact your reaction?

Values-based Decision Making - The Headline Test

When faced with a decision and you are unsure how to proceed, follow this simple model:

The Headline Test

